To Our NPSC Participating Pharmacies:

Northeast realizes that many of the store owners in the network simply have not had the time to create an employee handbook. That sets out in one place a description of how they want their employees to conduct themselves, what the disciplinary process involves, and what employee benefits are available to them.

Northeast believes that there are benefits to be realized if all employees are made aware of the personnel policies and procedures that management decides to adopt. No one in the pharmacy should be in the position of saying “I didn’t know that”. It is also important to have and to show to those that you consider hiring; it is a business tool used by professional organizations to describe the structure of your business. If designed correctly, it can assist you in running your business more smoothly.

The attached template has been drafted to give you a “working paper” that can be adapted to the way you have decided to run your store in the hope that it will make it easier for you to create your own version. You must create your own version. This template itself is not ready to be used in its current format. There are things for you to fill in, to personalize and sections that you must decide if you wish to include or not. In doing so, we strongly urge you to consult your own legal counsel to make sure that your text is consistent with applicable law. You will see notes in bold as you go through the document.

As you know, the template like other Northeast publications is not intended to be taken as legal advice. Legal advice comes from the legal counsel you engage.

So take some time to go through this template. In putting this together, we reviewed a number of pharmacy handbooks to get a feel for what pharmacies found important, and added other things that we felt were necessary. We hope that you find the document useful. We encourage you to call us if you have any questions.

Sincerely yours,

Patricia Monaco, President, CEO
