

Mind and Body:

Cannabinoids and Our Endocannabinoid System: Research has shown that cannabinoids are a critical part to our endocannabinoid system (ECS). The main purpose of the ECS is to regulate homeostasis - a state of equilibrium keeping our body and mind at its natural resting stage.

Cannabinoids are chemical compounds that are found in our body (ECS) and also in the hemp plant. The ECS is made up of receptors that interact with cannabinoids. These receptors lie in our brain, central nervous system, digestive tract, organs and skin, as well as various other areas. A deficiency in our ECS can lead to an unbalanced physiological state resulting in various possible side effects including but not subject to; pain, inflammation, emotional instability, stiffness and other various ailments.

Where does CBD help?

CBD, an oil derived from the hemp plant can be used as a supplement to help any of the deficiencies listed above. Numerous studies have shown that the benefits of CBD include but are not limited to - antioxidant, anti-anxiety, antipsychotic, antinausea, anti-inflammatory, and antidepressant properties.

Why CBD?

CBD stands for cannabidiol, a compound naturally found in Hemp and Cannabis plants. Unlike THC, it is non-intoxicating, and it does not produce a high. Numerous studies indicate that CBD may support homeostasis, or balance in your body's natural rhythms. Many users of CBD products experience incredible benefits.

Why New England Hemp Farm?

At NEHF, we are committed to delivering only the highest quality and most trustworthy CBD products to our customers. Visit us at www.newenglandhempfarm.com and one of our Hemp Experts is available to talk about which CBD products, and at what doses, are right for you.

What are the right CBD products for you?

Here at NEHF we have a balanced and wide array of products. Here is a guide to help you personalize your choices of our high-quality CBD products.

• Tinctures:

The most effective way of taking CBD is in a liquid form. Take your personalized dosage in the dropper and place under tongue for 1-2 mins. The liquid is absorbed by the blood vessels under your tongue providing quick effective results.

• Edibles:

Our Liquid Capsules are the next fastest acting product that we offer as the capsules are filled with CBD oil which will enter your system once the capsule has been digested. Orally consuming CBD Gummies have shown a longer lasting result as they naturally travel slower through the digestive system. Our Liquid Capsules and Gummies allow you to easily take your daily dosage at any time of the day.

• Topical Creams and Relief Rubs:

This CBD application method is an effective choice in dealing with aches and pains, joint stiffness, as well as skin conditions. Apply a personal amount to the affected area and you will immediately feel the benefits of CBD as it absorbs into your skin.

• Pets:

Edibles and drops for your furry friend. CBD can also provide pets with pain, joint, inflammation and anxiety relief.

New England Hemp Farm:

Our mission is to serve you the highest quality CBD products available in the marketplace. We are completely transparent -- we list every ingredient on all of our products. We stay up to date with industry trends and the latest research findings. Our products are always independently, third party tested and can always be trusted - we would never settle for any lower standard. We are committed to deliver only the best to our NEHF family, and we are confident in the effectiveness, purity, and quality of our CBD products.

Known list of CBD's Increasing Benefits:

Dating as far back as 2700 BCE, hemp has been used as a remedy for a variety of conditions. More recent medical studies show the promise of CBD as a holistic alternative remedy to a wide array of issues such as: anxiety, chronic and acute pain, rheumatoid arthritis, PTSD, sleep, immune and digestive health, stiffness, and various skin conditions.
